Annual Meeting

THE thirty-first Annual Meeting of the Lend a Hand Society was held on Saturday, May 20, 1922, in the South Congregational Church, Boston (Dr. Hale's church), through the courtesy of the Standing Committee of the church, Rev. Christopher R. Eliot, President of the Society, presiding.

Twenty-eight Clubs represented by about sixty delegates, and individual members of the Society, attended the business meeting, while about two hundred attended the public meeting. The boys and girls present added to the pleasure in both meetings.

The list of officers for the ensuing year presented by the Nominating Committee was the same as last year, and the officers were unanimously elected. The President stated that Mrs. Leland wished to resign as Secretary, and asked that she be temporarily re-elected and that the appointment of a new Secretary be left to the Board of Directors. A vote to that effect was carried. Mr. Eliot expressed for himself and the other officers appreciation of the honor of re-election, and pledged continued loyal service.

The Nominating Committee was re-elected. It consists of Mrs. Mary B. Ferguson, Mr. Wm. Howell Reed, and Mrs. Clara B. Beatley.

The Superintendent stated that twelve years ago Mrs. Whitman made her last annual report which was a resumé of the work of the preceding twenty-five years, and that this was the anniversary of her death on May 20, 1918. Mr. Eliot spoke feelingly of Mrs. Whitman's service as Secretary and Superintendent of the Society for twenty-five years, and of her love for Dr. Hale.

An appeal was made for clothing for the destitute people in the Near East, circulars and tags having been distributed to all present at both meetings.

The President opened the Public Meeting with a heartfelt prayer, and the audience said together the Lend a Hand mottoes. Two poems of Dr. Hale were sung,—“Send Me” (Tune, Ellers) and “Each for All” (Tune, White), Miss Ida Hunneman presiding at the piano.

In the unavoidable absence of Rev. Edward Cummings, minister of the South Congregational Church, who was to have given the address of welcome, Mr. Eliot spoke for him. He referred to the word of welcome Mr. Cummings gave in his church at the celebration of Dr. Hale's one hundredth anniversary, and of the welcome he wished the church to give to all sorts of societies; among them he mentioned the Lend a Hand.

Three typical reports from young Clubs were made by the following delegates : Ruth Bailey, President Lend a Hand Club, Newton Centre, Mass. ; Isabel Stearn, Treasurer Dorothea Dix Club, Manchester, N. H. ; Robert M. Cate, Secretary Lincoln Club, Belmont, Mass. These reports will be found in the "Leaflet."

Two addresses followed, one by Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, Field Secretary of the Massachusetts Division on Immigration and Americanization, her subject being "The Work of Massachusetts with Immigrants;" the other by Rev. Samuel McChord Crothers, D. D., on "Edward Everett Hale." Dr. Crothers very kindly substituted for Dr. Horton who was kept at home by illness.

Superintendent's Report

OUR minds are always filled at these Annual Meetings with memories of our Founder, whose annual messages to his Lend a Hand members and friends were always an inspiration, and a constant revelation of his great love for humanity. Dr. Hale's gratification in the practical result of his story "Ten Times One is Ten," in which he expressed his Lend a Hand ideals, is well known. We are constantly quoting his words,— "The Club reports do me more good than anything with which I have to do," and "If I never see you again, I die happier for your efforts to make my work permanent."

At this Annual Meeting, held so soon after celebrating on April 3 the one hundredth anniversary of Dr. Hale's birth, we again remember and honor him by reporting that the Lend a Hand, so dear to his heart, has had another progressive year. The two quotations from Dr. Hale just mentioned refer to two important sides of our work. One is the stimulation of the Clubs to continued and greater endeavor, and the organization of new Clubs. The other is the permanency and efficiency of the work, which is constantly on our minds in an effort to obtain new annual subscribers and bequests to the Hale Endowment Fund. The results this year are as follows, and from this point on the report must be largely statistical in order to make it brief.

First: Twenty-five new Clubs, with a membership of about 400 children and young people, have been organized in the course of the year, which means that many young minds and hearts have been touched with the desire for service. The three Club reports you will hear today are typical and indicate the new young life which is the hope of our Society. Besides, the older Clubs have increased in public spirit, many in membership, and consequently in accomplishment.

Second: 325 new annual subscribers to the work, contributing $431, have been obtained. This addition to our funds, and a gift of $400 from the Permanent Charity Fund, prevented a deficit of about $296. We have, therefore, the unusual balance of $532.31.

To the Hale Endowment Fund have been added the following bequests: Mr. Charles L. Davis, $1000; Mrs. Mary Willson Tucker, $465.32; Mrs. Lena Frank Hecht, $200; Mr. Levi Holt, $1000. Gifts to the Fund amounting to $193.17 were also made by Clubs and friends in memory of Dr. Hale's one hundredth birthday. These additions have brought the Endowment Fund up to $67,565.67.

At the beginning of last year there was a balance in the treasury of but $101.73. We were, therefore, unable to answer 15 or 20 appeals from other agencies with whom we constantly co-operate. Fortunately, in July the generous gift of $400 for general relief work, just mentioned, enabled us to supply 66 people with eye-glasses, teeth, food, clothing, bedding, medical and surgical appliances, etc., the appeals for which came from the social service departments of four Boston hospitals, and from many other social agencies.

These same agencies (and a few individuals) also sent us 66 applications for vacations or convalescent care through our Outing Fund. For various reasons, 18 people for whom vacations were arranged did not avail of the opportunity. Of the 48 who were sent away, 22 were men. The oldest was 87, and five were over 75 years of age. This would have pleased the originator of "Outings for Old Men." The Outings started May 1, 1921, with the handsome balance of $501.21, to which the Clubs and friends added $253, the Permanent Charity Fund $100, making total receipts $854.21. This enabled us to avoid appealing to the public, already heavily drained. The expenses for the year were $602.40, and the balance on hand May 1, 1922, was $251.81. Half of this amount is already promised for board, and we are approaching the busy summer season. We shall, therefore, need at least $500 more to cover the year's work. This is the only agency in Boston and vicinity that provides for vacations or convalescent care for men, and should, therefore, be well supported.

Our Sewing Department deserves special mention as it helps support self-respecting, needy women through a small, solicited fund. Eleven women have been given weekly sewing during the winter months. The Children's Hospital supplies the cut-out garments, we pay the women for making them. $123.63 has been used for this purpose. We could treble our usefulness could we raise the funds. We have only $5 on hand today.

The cry for clothing has come from all quarters of the globe, as well as at our own door. We have been fortunate in receiving and distributing 1169 unusually good articles of clothing, besides 16 complete layettes.

We are now engaged in soliciting clothing in answer to the “ Bundle Days ” appeal from the Near East Relief.

Besides the 330 articles of warm clothing, about half of which was sent to Dr. Grenfell's fisher-folk in the Far North, in response to his urgent letter of appeal, two children's Clubs sent $8 and four adult Clubs purchased 450 pounds of codfish to aid the poor fishermen who had had a good catch this year, but could find no market.

The Clubs have also sent to :

French Orphans	$63.95
Near East Relief	216.48
Russian Relief	48.00
Manassas Industrial School	7 00

In addition, at the Autumn Conference of the Clubs, held in the Beacon Universalist Church of Brookline, $35 was collected for the benefit of the Agricultural and Industrial Institute for Colored Youth of Sparta, Ga. The founder and principal of this school, Mr. L. S. Ingraham, addressed the Conference telling of his childhood in slavery days and of his founding the school. The other speakers were Mrs. Eleanor Roulston of the Boston Seaman's Friend Society, and Hon. Frederick P. Cabot, Judge of the Juvenile Court of Boston.

At the Midwinter Conference, held in the Watertown Unitarian Church, the speakers and their subjects were, Rev. Lyman V. Rutledge, Secretary of the Unitarian Temperance Society, on “ A Clean, Strong Life,” and Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead on “ The Washington Conference and the Next Step.” Through these quarterly meetings the Clubs report to each other of their work, and are given glimpses of the larger national and international movements. The noon hour at the February Conference was devoted to memories of Dr. Hale, it being the meeting of the Clubs nearest his birthday. Loving tributes, tender memories, and reminiscences were the themes of the personal and informal addresses by those who knew Dr. Hale intimately,—Miss Ethel Hale Freeman, Mr. Franklin P. Daly, Mrs. Martha Adams Leland, and Miss Helen Kimball. Brief reports were made in the monthly “ Lend a Hand Leaflet.”

And now a word about the Christmas cheer it was our privilege to dispense. As near as we can estimate, 390 people received gifts from the Lend a Hand Santa. Forty or more children and a blind woman were remembered by the box of toys, games, books, candy, etc., that went to the little Sunday School in the Maine lumber woods. Their grateful acknowledgment reads :

"We had a fine time Christmas, though it snowed. We had two trees trimmed with your decorations. The children from a large portable saw mill added to our number this year. There are seven camps at the mill with children. The candy canes went to the blind lady. Your box is a great help to us every year. We hardly know how to tell you how much we appreciate your generous help. But the blessed Master knows all your good works and receives it as done unto Himself. That is your best reward."

Ninety-six gifts were sent for distribution by the Lend a Hand Club at Outer Long Island, Maine, where there is a station for the Maine Seacoast Mission. Their acknowledgment stated :

"This has been an unusually hard fall and winter on the coast, and for many of the children there would have been no Christmas if it had not been for outside help."

The Boston Dispensary planned a Christmas tree for 300 children. Those in charge finding, as the day approached, that all the promised gifts were not forthcoming, appealed to Lend a Hand for 100 children who might be disappointed. Our gratitude to Santa has been increased a hundred-fold since he helped us satisfy the longing of each of those little ones.

As usual, we remembered twenty-five needy, elderly or shut-ins with as many crisp dollar bills tied into beautiful Christmas cards. Seven more lonely ones were sent boxes of candy with cards, and two elderly women were entertained at the theatre and dinner on Christmas Monday. To those who extended this Christ-like friendliness, we say, "God bless you everyone !"

There are those who need us at all times to whom it is a privilege to offer friendship as well as material aid. There are others who do not deserve the time we have to spend to hear their stories. In connection with such, we have to thank many agencies for saving long investigations and preventing unwise aid.

And now it becomes my sad duty to record the names of fifteen members who have passed on during the year to the higher life. One was a life member, Miss Hannah P. Kimball; seven were subscribers or donors for years,—Miss J. E. C. Chapman, Miss Lillian Freeman Clarke, Miss Julia Lyman, Dr. F. P. Sprague, Mrs. R. H. Stevenson, Miss Hannah D. W. Weld, Mrs. Harvey Wheeler; and seven more were new subscribers,—Mr. Charles P. Bowditch, Mr. George S. Child, Miss Cornelia Hartshorn, Mrs. E. S. Philbrick, Col. William Cary Sanger, Mr. Charles P. Ware, Mr. William B. Young.

We shall miss their friendly letters as well as their financial aid. With such loss of friends each year from death and other reasons, we feel more keenly the necessity of continuing our effort of the past two years to obtain one thousand new annual subscribers. It has taken two years, since May 1, 1920, to gain 757, while we had hoped to add one thousand each year to our list. We are not discouraged, for we know there must be more than a thousand generous people who can yet be reached. Could they see the exhibit of our work sent to Tokyo, Japan, with that of other Boston agencies, for the Peace Exhibition being held during this spring and summer,—or, could they spend a week in the Lend a Hand office,—they would realize how diversified is the work and how greatly needed is their interest.

The President and other members of the Board of Directors have given loyal, continuous service and wise advice throughout the year.

We heartily thank everyone who has contributed by word or deed to make the past year a progressive one, and earnestly beseech their continued co-operation.

Respectfully submitted,

ANNIE FLORENCE BROWN,
Superintendent.

Lend a Hand Book Mission

OF what use is it to teach children to read if they have nothing but their text-books or government bulletins to read,—or, worse, nothing but trash?

It is thirty-two years since some such thought stimulated the founder of the Book Mission, Miss Sarah P. Brigham, to investigate conditions in rural southern communities, and to set about improving them.

That thought is constantly in my mind when receiving applications for books like this one from a County Home Demonstrator in Georgia:

“These people are so hungry for something to read. Many of them are old people that I have taught to read and write. My work is in the very heart of the mountains and being a native I feel that I know the needs more than anyone else could.

I would love so much to get a little library started in each of our fifteen country schools, where there is not a book except their text-books. Many have not that—may only be a piece of an old one passed down.”

The letter of acknowledgment of the new books sent this worker closed with, “I wish all interested could know how these books are appreciated.”

Another teacher, in North Carolina, the daughter of the County Superintendent, wrote that the twenty-two schools in the County were attended by nearly 2000 pupils, only a few of whom had anything to read except their school books. The County Federation of Women’s Clubs, together with the Board of Education, are forming a County Library to be opened to these schools, and asked our help. A box of well-chosen second-hand books has been sent, and new books promised in the fall when we shall have funds.

It is because of this fearful lack of good reading in so many thousands of rural communities today that “Children’s Book Week” was inaugurated by the American Library Association. We eagerly co-operated with this movement last November by sending to all our Southern co-workers hundreds of copies of the prepared literature. We hope that a poster like the one displayed here today is hanging in every school-house we have reached, and is inviting the children not only to read the books we sent them, but to obtain others by their own effort.

Self-help is being encouraged wherever possible by offering schools that can raise $5 or $6 for new books an equal amount, the Book Mission to make the purchase and shipment. A number of schools in Georgia and North Carolina have taken advantage of this offer, sending $189.85. This has stimulated endeavor on their part, and saved some of the Book Mission's meagre funds for more impoverished places. A friend who sent us some second-hand books and a check wrote that she knew of no organization that accomplished as much with such limited funds. We appreciate the tribute, but we hope next year will not be as difficult as has been the last. The Book Mission had a deficit a few months ago of more than $300, and it has been an anxiety and added burden to reduce it. On May 1 the deficit was $13.80, as we had received $1538.60 and expended $1552.40.

Some of you will recall that last year I stated that applications for about 25,000 books were received while on the southern journey for the Book Mission, and that I had ventured to promise them. You will note from the following figures that another year will pass before those pledges will be redeemed.

Since May 1, 1921, we have given 10,593 books (4102 of which were new), uncounted tons of magazines, pictures, maps, and cards of all varieties, to 197 places in nine southern states; 165 of these were new; 33 were colored schools or libraries. This means that we have sent 1659 more books than last year, and that 67 more places than last year have received our help,—an encouraging increase, after all.

Fifteen of the 33 colored schools or public libraries aided were in North Carolina, where, through the efforts of State Agent N. C. Newbold, more opportunity for education seems to be given the negroes than elsewhere.

When in Rome, Ga., last spring we suggested to the Librarian and Trustees of the fine Carnegie Library for white people, that a public library be started for the colored folk, promising the first hundred books and continued help. It has been a great satisfaction to learn of the opening of the library and of the co-operation of the white people.

Race co-operation is being wisely brought about in all the states through the Commission on Inter-Racial Co-operation, organized in 1919 by representative Southern men and women of both races. More than eight hundred county inter-racial committees have resulted from the Commission's efforts. You may know that in January last, another open letter was sent to the college men of the South from the University Commission on Southern Race Questions, calling attention to the progress made and urging a study of "the facts now available concerning the advancement of the Negro race in education, in professional accomplishment, in economic independence and in character."

Our interest in the prisons and convict camps has continued. The consecrated, feeble Chaplain, Rev. E. L. Vaughan, of Fulton County, Ga., wrote in April:

"The work of the prisons is still going on, and the men are asking for more paper, envelopes, pen staffs, pencils, etc. My school books also are all out and I would be grateful to have more when you can send them. If you can get hold of any Bibles and Testaments would be so glad to have them. We have a newly organized camp for which we need many of these things."

A box answering in part this request is on its way to Mr. Vaughan.

On the letter-head of a colored school in Mississippi appealing to us for books was the school motto: "Better education, better citizens, better teachers." The letter-head of a training school in Alabama states that the school is "for the education of head, heart, and hands of colored youth." The educators among the white people have often told me that the negroes in their vicinity were setting the pace in educational lines. All these facts show progress. We like to think that for thirty and more years the Book Mission has had a part in the advancement of the colored people.

The mountain problems are different, but just as difficult, as illustrated by the following sentences culled from recent letters appealing for books:

"This county is entirely shut in by the mountains and the nearest railroad station to the County seat is eighteen miles away. Consequently, there is a general lack of progress and improvement in the schools. They are sadly deficient in improvements and modern equipment."

"The state has made a survey of the County, urging consolidation, and some progress is being made, but on account of the difficulty of transportation and the poor financial condition of the majority of the patrons, the work is slow."

"Limited means, lack of personal ambition, no parental co-operation, and entire ignorance of cultural customs are heavy drawbacks."

"We have many children coming from homes that have no books in them, and, I am sorry to say it, there are parents in our community who believe only in 'school books and the Bible.'"

The teachers in communities like these are working heroically and with a consecration born of their own desire to serve and of the needs they find. They are sacrificing comfort, many times the necessities of life, while building up a school and improving community conditions. Yet they write cheerful acknowledgments like this one from Mississippi:

"You have certainly made the hearts of about 100 children happy, which is a great work in itself. I wish you could have been present at Chapel this morning when I read to them your letter stating that you were sending the books. The cheers were long and loud for 'Lend a Hand Book Mission.'"

Do you not feel like echoing that cheer? The hundred children just mentioned form but one group of the many thousands that have been made happy, because enlightened, by the friends of the Book Mission. Through us, they are heartily expressing their gratitude to you today.

Will you kindly renew your contributions of money for new books and of good second-hand books—if possible, increase them this year—that we may give some light and opportunity to as many more future citizens of this country?

Respectfully submitted,

ANNIE FLORENCE BROWN,
Superintendent.

BOOKS

When I consider what some books have done for the world, and what they are doing; how they keep up our hope; awake new courage and faith; soothe pain; give ideal life to those whose homes are cold and hard; bind together distant ages and foreign languages; create new works of beauty, bring down truths from heaven,—I give it blessings for this gift, and pray God we may all use it aright and abuse it never.
